4-06.08 (h) Faculty Senate Online and Hybrid Learning Committee.

The Faculty Senate Online and Hybrid Learning Committee (OHLC) serves as a consultative, advisory body to the Provost, helping to make educational opportunities available to populations of learners through the University's expansion into distance education. The OHLC will maintain a focus on the principles of Ignatian Pedagogy, ensuring that online and hybrid programs enhance the reputation of the University as face to face programs are expected to do. To that end, the Online and Hybrid Learning Committee will coordinate faculty efforts to create teaching standards that provide for a high level of student engagement, ensure the integrity of student grading, assess whether the teaching standards and student engagement goals are being met, and evaluate learning outcomes, for both fully and hybrid online programs. The OHLC will consist of one member from the curriculum or online learning committee of the Arts and Sciences Faculty and of each professional school, elected by the relevant committee's faculty; a chair, appointed by the Senate; and up to 2 designees from the Provost's office. Members will be elected on or before May 15 and will serve staggered terms of two years.
